Supplementary Reading

Our Guide to Good Reading describes 300 volumes of our Supplementary Reading. It will be sent free to any address on request.

This is by far the choicest collection of its kind ever issued by a single publisher. Not only are the books instructive, supplementing the work in the regular branches, but they appeal to the child, and provide reading which is unusually entertaining. Mechanically they are attractive, and with very few exceptions beautifully illustrated.

Hotchkiss and Drew's Business English

This book on business English presents the things about the use of English that the business man should know and should want his employees to know. Both the plan and the material have been determined from the business man's point of view. It is a thoroughly practical book for business courses.

The essentials of good English are emphasized—especially sentence structure and diction. There is abundant practice in common business forms and usages, such as the make-up of a letter, remittances, etc. Sales letters, advertisements and reports are also included. All examples are taken from actual business letters.

PROGRESS IN THE STATE SOCIALIZATION OF TEXT-BOOK PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION

WE have become so used to that socialization of education known as the free school system, it has become so pervasively an inherent part of our American state, that we no longer look on it as socialistic at all. No extension of governmental activity is in theory more easily defended; none has gained for itself in practice broader or stronger commendation. It is not surprising therefore that the comparatively slight further step in the same direction implied in the state's undertaking the supplying of free text-books seemed both feasible and desirable and roused little or no opposition from the general public.

Few, even in the book-trade, however, may realize the extent to which this practice has spread, particularly in the last decade. Within the last year the U. S. Bureau of Education has published a summary of the situation* which every bookseller will do well to read and ponder. We referred to it in last year's Educational Number before the complete text of the pamphlet had reached us; on further examination, it has seemed so significant that we are reprinting the most pertinent portions of it in abridged form elsewhere in this issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

It is evident from a study of this statistical summary that it is impossible to disguise the fact that elementary school book distribution has already to a very large extent passed from the hands of the retail book-trade. The evolution was gradual, both in method and by geographical area. First it was but a question of "uniformity" of text-books; certain books were "prescribed" by the city, the country, the school district or the state, and others ignored. And state uniformity obtains now in 24 states.

The free distribution of text-books by the city, state, or other body was the obvious next step. Free text-books for all public elementary schools are now mandatory in 15 states, and in 11 of these for secondary schools as well. And these 15 include such important states as Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, California, and New Jersey. In 17 other states there is "permissive" legislation, cities' or school districts may themselves supply free text-books if they wish. This is true of such states of large school population as New York, Connecticut, and Wisconsin, and is very generally availed of—to the extent in the above states respectively for example of 66%, 85%, and 66%. Furthermore in the remaining 16 states large numbers of cities and districts supply free text-books without specific legal authorization.

Even more significant is the fact that the movement for free text-books is going steadily forward. There are constant accessions to the ranks and, in the words of the Bureau of Education's bulletin, "in no single case is there any movement looking toward the repeal of the free text-book law." Furthermore, several states which do not have free text-books have, through uniformity legislation and the establishment of official state "depositories," taken the distribution of such books out of the hands of the general retail book-trade.

It has seldom been claimed, unless we are mistaken, by even the most ardent advocates of free text-book distribution that the reason therefore was the excessive profits enjoyed by the retailer. In fact, it is probable that one reason why the retail bookseller has not made more strenuous protest against the "socialization" of this important portion of his trade has been that for many years discounts on school books have been so narrow as to afford him little or no profit. No retail bookseller can make a living on a discount margin or 15 or 20 per cent., no matter what the volume of his business or the peculiarity of its character.

The best proof that the bookseller has enjoyed no unusual profit is afforded by a careful analysis and comparison of the sale prices of individual texts, when sold by the state on the one side and the retail trade on the other. We have generally no means of knowing how the state's costs of distribution, including particularly necessary overhead expenses, were apportioned; but it seems evident from what figures we have that in general few articles of general merchandise are sold on narrower margins of cost all along the line than school books under existing competitive conditions.

The Bureau of Education bulletin also shows fairly clearly that, whereas state distribution of text-books is becoming progressively more and more the rule, state production of text-books has made little headway, and in the few cases where it has been tried out has, with some exceptions, met with the favor neither of educational authorities nor the general public. In California, the pioneer state, unless we are mistaken, in this movement, state publication has suffered many vicissitudes in its few years of trial. Last year we outlined the history of some of them. Kansas, the only other state to attempt state school book publishing, was able to profit by the California experiment, as the brief summary of its trial of the plan, which we publish elsewhere in this issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, shows.

A united book-trade might have effected—might still effect—some modification of state text-book distribution working toward improvement in plan or greater efficiency in the execution of present methods, while not ignoring entirely, as at present, the interests of the book-trade itself. In any event it is wise to observe tendencies and take stock of possible new or maturing opportunities.

IN connection with the recent editorial in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY on "author's books," following the proposal regarding them advanced at the Chicago convention, Little, Brown & Company suggest that we call attention to their statement in a recent bulletin that, whatever other publishers may do and whatever they themselves may have done in the past, it is now their "fixed policy to confine our acceptance of manuscripts to those in which we have sufficient faith to justify our paying all the expenses of production." Here is a flat-footed platform regarding so-called "author's books" which will probably receive the hearty endorsement of the retail trade. We are advised that Little, Brown & Company is not the only publishing house willing to guarantee "no author's books."

FREE TEXTBOOKS AND STATE UNIFORMITY

By A. C. MONAHAN, of the United States Bureau of Education

FREE TEXTBOOKS

FURNISHING textbooks at the expense of the community, free to the individual school children, is not a new idea in the United States. It began as a movement in city school administration nearly a century ago. Philadelphia made provisions for free textbooks in 1818. Other cities, principally in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, and Massachusetts, followed. A list is included in this section, compiled from data published in the Report of the Commissioner of Education for 1902,* giving the names of the larger cities and the dates when free textbooks were adopted. Only those are included which furnished books free before 1884, the year the first State-wide adoption was made. In addition, it should be remembered that many smaller cities furnished free books before 1884.

Cities among the 159 largest in the United States adopting free textbooks previous to 1884

Philadelphia, Pa. 1818	Wilmington, Del. 1875
Jersey City, N. J. 1830	Johnstown, Pa... 1875
Newark, N. J.... 1838	Woonsocket, R.I. 1877
Elizabeth, N. J... 1850	New York, N. Y. 1878
Hoboken, N. J... 1855	Lowell, Mass.... 1881
Charleston, S. C. 1856	Yonkers, N. Y. .. 1882
Paterson, N. J... 1860	La Crosse, Wis.. 1882
Chester, Pa..... 1864	Holyoke, Mass... 1883
Passaic, N. J..... 1870	Camden, N. J.... 1883
Fall River, Mass. 1874

Massachusetts was the first State to pass a mandatory State-wide free-textbook law: this became effective in 1884. Before this date 16 towns were furnishing free books. (The dates when similar laws were passed in the other 14 States where mandatory legislation is now in force are given in the table on page 190.

The movement for free textbooks is a logical part of the movement for free education. The idea that every boy and girl in the United States shall have an opportunity for an elementary and secondary school education seems to be firmly established; also the idea that the support of the schools where this opportunity is given shall be placed not wholly upon the children or their parents, but upon the community or State. The necessity of popular education in a democratic government like that of the United States and of the various States is so generally recognized that compulsory education laws have been passed in all but two of the States, and comparatively little complaint is now heard from taxpayers who are required to assist both through direct and indirect taxation in the support of schools for the children compelled by law to attend. Under the general system of education in the United States, the three principal factors are the school plant, the teacher, and the textbook. The textbook is undoubtedly of much greater importance than it should be, but it will hold its position of importance at least as long as the present large proportion of untrained teachers are employed in the public school systems. The untrained and the partially trained teacher must "lean" on the textbook; he or she must rely upon it both for subject matter and for method of teaching. It is important, therefore, that good books, selected by competent authority, be in the hands of all children, rich and poor alike. In no other way can this requirement be met except through free books. There are many children too poor to pay for books, and many others to whom the cost is such an important item that school authorities hesitate to change the books in use even when much better results might be obtained by a change. It is true that, in many States which have not adopted free textbooks, laws have been passed requiring local school authorities to furnish books free to indigent children. This, on the whole, has proved unsatisfactory; it marks as "charity pupils" some who wish to be independent, and it is a direct encouragement to others a little above the "indigent" class to use influence with school authorities to obtain free books.

*See Report of Commissioner of Education, 1902, vol. 2, page 2390. The list gives those of the 159 cities in the United States with a population of 25,000 or over in 1900 which had free textbooks in 1902. The dates of adoption and the grades in which books were supplied are also given. According to this source, 93 of the 159 cities furnished free textbooks.

The movement for free textbooks is also a logical part of a movement for compulsory education. Legal enactments are provided to require children to attend school. Their attendance is of little value unless the children have textbooks. If their parents are unable to buy books for them, or are unwilling to do so, or fail to provide books for the opening days of the school, the work of the school is greatly delayed. A few pupils without books hold the entire class back.

The principal arguments advanced in favor of free textbooks are: (1) Poor children whose parents are unable to purchase books, or are unable to do so without great sacrifice, may attend school as well equipped in this respect as the richer children: (2) uniformity of textbooks in each school administrative district is secured; (3) texts may be changed with little inconvenience whenever changes are desirable; (4) additional textbooks and supplementary books may be supplied; (5) school work is not delayed at the beginning of the school year while parents obtain books for their children.

It is claimed also that books purchased by school boards, because purchased in quantities, cost less than those bought by individual parents. This is undoubtedly true if only the same number of books is purchased. Under the free textbook system more different books are usually obtained as basic texts and as supplementary books, and changes are made more frequently; on the other hand, books belonging to the school are in more nearly constant use as different classes and different divisions use the same books. It is therefore probable that the total investment is about the same. Also, it is probable that the total annual per capita expenditure for books in a State with free textbooks is about the same as in a State where children or parents purchase their own books. Conclusive data to prove this statement do not seem to be available, but figures are given later which support this statement. In examining these figures, it must be remembered that most of the free-textbook States maintain a larger proportional number of high schools than most of the other States, and that the cost of books given includes those for high schools as well as those for elementary schools. This, of course, makes the per capita cost higher than it would be otherwise.

The principal arguments advanced against free books and in favor of the pupils purchasing their own books are: (1) Parents and pupils are made to realize that they cannot become wholly dependent on the State, but must continue to assume some of the responsibilities of education; (2) on account of the cost, greatly increased school taxes would be necessary or the amount available for salaries and other expenses would be decreased; (3) children should not be required to use books soiled by other children, as they are objectionable to the majority of children and parents, both for esthetic and sanitary reasons; (4) by purchasing textbooks home libraries may be built up;* (5) books furnished free are not cared for as are those owned by the pupils. On the other hand, because the free textbooks are public property, intrusted to the pupil, to be paid for if damaged or lost, and frequently inspected by the teachers, it is claimed that they are as well or better cared for. Testimony collected from 39 cities furnishing free textbooks, on this point, is contained in the annual report of the Commissioner of Education for 1902, volume 1, page 639. The great majority reported that books are apparently as well cared for as under the individual ownership plan. The care the books receive depends entirely upon the way in which the system is managed.

The consensus of opinion among teachers, superintendents, and school authorities wherever free textbooks have been furnished to children seems to be strongly in favor of the system. The reports are practically unanimous that the plan is successful. Reference has been made to an inquiry made a few years ago among cities in the United States furnishing free books. This inquiry asked for information as to whether the plan was generally satisfactory; 74 cities reported yes, six cities partially, and no cities reported no.

The division of education of the Russell Sage Foundation in 1912 questioned 20 State superintendents, in States in which free textbooks are furnished to all or the larger portion of the children, with respect to the effect of the free textbooks on educational efficiency. The results of the inquiry are as follows:*

In no single case is there any movement looking toward the repeal of the free textbook law.

Each one of the 20 State superintendents testifies that free textbooks enhance the efficiency of the teaching in the public schools.

COST OF TEXTBOOKS

There is a fear that free textbooks will add greatly to the cost of the public-school system and will greatly increase the rate of taxation for school purposes. In districts where the rate is already high there is fear that compulsory free books will result in lower salaries of the teaching force. It is an unnecessary fear, for, as a matter of fact, the cost of the books is a relatively small item in the total expenditure for school purposes. Greatly exaggerated ideas prevail concerning the total number of textbooks sold in the United States each year and the annual profits resulting from such sales. Confidential data have been obtained by the Bureau of Education from 43 textbook publishers in the United States relative to their total sales for 1913. This list of 43 includes practically all of the textbook publishers in the United States whose business is more than purely local. They handle probably 99 per cent. of the total textbook business. These publishers submitted figures stating their total sales of textbooks for use in public schools and their total sales for both public and private schools for the year 1913. The aggregate for public schools, elementary and high, amounted to $14,261,768.25.† The total enrollment in public elementary and high schools for the year was approximately 18,609,040. Excluding the elementary school enrollment of California, as California prints her own elementary books,‡ the number becomes 18,213,786. Therefore, for each child enrolled in the public schools in the United States the total annual sale of textbooks is 78.3 cents. The total expenditure per child for textbooks is greater than this amount by from 10 to 15 per cent., as local dealers receive a commission on sales fixed in many States by legislation at the per cents given. The cost of textbooks is, therefore, but little more than 2 per cent. of the total cost in maintenance, support, and equipment. The sale per child on the school population basis (5-18 years of age) is 56.6 cents; the annual per capita sale of textbooks on the total population basis is less than 15 cents. Definite data in regard to the cost in free textbook states are included in the following table:

*Russell Sage Foundation. Division of education. A comparative study of public-school systems in the forty-eight States. New York, 1912.

†The aggregate for all schools, both public and private, amounted to $17,274,030.

‡Kansas also now prints many of the textbooks used in the state; the plan, however, was not in operation in 1913.

[4] The high per capita cost of free textbooks for 1913-14 was due to the fact that this was the year of changing textbooks, and heavy purchases were, therefore, made. The per capita cost, as stated, was $1.93, totaling $186,202 for the year. Adoptions were made for five years, and when the cost for the remaining four years is ascertained the average will be much lower. The cost for 1910-11 was 65 cents per capita; for 1911-12, 58 cents.

Comparison of these figures and others representing the cost in states where free textbooks are not furnished may be made from the data in the following pages, obtained from various authentic sources, principally from the managers of the state depositories. All of the state depositories were asked by the bureau to submit figures showing their total sales for public-school textbooks each year for the past five years. Some have done so and others have not, principally because in many states the textbook business is but a part of a general business, and individual accounts are not kept from which the exact amount of textbook sales can be obtained without considerable work. In reviewing the figures given it must be remembered that in nearly all states books may be purchased directly from the publishers by sending cash to the main offices. Books are then sent by mail or express, and a record of their sale would not appear in the office of the state book depositories. The per capita sales figures presented are, therefore, undoubtedly lower than the actual sales. However, from them an estimate may be made approximating closely the amount of money spent for public-school textbooks by adding 10 to 15 per cent. for local commissions.

[The article here quotes figures of sales and average expense per child for books for Virginia, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Oregon, Alabama, etc.]

A recent estimate of the cost of providing free textbooks for the State of New York has just been completed by the New York State department of efficiency and economy. The results constitute a report to the state legislature, dated January 15, 1915. This report gives an estimate of the probable expenditure necessary to supply all elementary and secondary school pupils in the state with free books. The estimate is based upon figures obtained from New York City relative to the cost in the city school system, where free textbooks have been supplied for 37 years. Uniformity of textbooks does not prevail in New York City. The department of education authorizes books which may be used, the selections being made by each individual school. The official list contains 1806 titles of books for elementary schools and 2225 titles of books for secondary schools. The city department had no statistics regarding the average cost of the books purchased, and it was necessary, therefore, to collect individual information from the various schools. A canvass was made of 450 schools with 18,325 teachers and 597,229 pupils in the elementary grades. The titles and prices of all textbooks in use in 439 of these schools were obtained.

A brief summary showing the average unit price paid in the city of New York, according to this report, for the textbooks used in teaching the seven subjects prescribed in the course of elementary instruction is given below; also there is given the cost of supplying pupils with textbooks in the city high schools. It must be clearly understood that these figures do not represent annual expenditures for free textbooks. They represent the cost of new books, which would be the expense incurred by the installation of a free textbook system. The annual expenditure would be approximately these figures divided by the number of years the books are used.

The same report publishes the average annual cost of textbooks in 28 New York cities furnishing free books for elementary schools and 17 furnishing them for secondary schools. New York City is included in both groups. The annual per capita cost in elementary schools of 28 cities is $0.6456; secondary schools of 17 cities, $1.5833.

First-year subjects	3.5315
Second-year subjects	5.3074
Third-year subjects	7.0463

This investigation indicates that the probable cost of installation of a system of furnishing free textbooks to all the pupils in the public schools of the state would be an average of $1.2348 for each elementary school pupil, "if purchased from private publishers at prices paid by the city of New York. No estimate has been made of the cost of publication by the state itself. The cost of renewal, or the annual cost of a free textbook system for New York State, is estimated from the annual cost in free textbook cities of the State as follows: In elementary schools, $0.6456; in secondary schools, $1.5833."

EXTENT OF FREE TEXTBOOK MOVEMENT.

Free textbooks for all public elementary schools are mandatory in 15 states; in 11 of these they are mandatory for public secondary schools as well. These 11 are: Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Wyoming. The four in which free textbooks need be furnished to all elementary school pupils only are Arizona, California, Utah, and Vermont. In the District of Columbia there is no law, but books are furnished by the Board of Education free to all elementary school children.

Of these states five—Arizona, California, Delaware, Nevada, and Utah—require the use of books adopted by state authorities. Maryland allows county boards to select books, Nebraska and Wyoming leave the selection with the local district boards, and New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island with the city or township boards. In Arizona and California all books are secured from state funds and remain the property of the state. In the other instances the books are purchased by the local authorities from local funds, either city, county, township, or district, depending upon the unit of administration and support in each instance.

In 17 other states school districts may supply free books if they desire to do so; this applies to all districts in 16 states and to cities and union free districts only in New York. These "permissive" states are Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Texas, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. Texas was put in this list by act of the 1915 Legislature. A "permissive" law was passed in Oregon in 1913, but was repealed by the 1915 Legislature. In all but five of these 17 permissive states the question of whether or not free textbooks shall be furnished is decided by a majority vote of the legal voters in the individual school districts. The matter is left to the discretion of the school boards in North Dakota, Ohio, Washington, and West Virginia; in Idaho it is left to the district, subject to regulations of the State Board of Education.

The extent to which the permissive laws have been taken advantage of in the various states is indicated in the following statements furnished in all but two cases by the state superintendents (1913-15):

[We omit the detailed statements.]

To summarize: The approximate percentage of the pupils enrolled to whom free textbooks were furnished is: Connecticut, 85 per cent.; Colorado, 60 per cent.; Idaho, 75 per cent.; Michigan, 20 per cent.; Minnesota, 90 per cent.; Missouri, 30 per cent.; Montana, 57 per cent.; New York, 66 per cent.; North Dakota, 50 per cent.; Ohio, 16 per cent.; South Dakota, 5 per cent.; Washington, 70 per cent.; West Virginia, 20 per cent.; Wisconsin, 66 per cent. The number in Iowa and Kansas is very small, and the Texas law has not been in operation long enough to allow districts to come under its operation.

In the 16 states where neither mandatory nor permissive laws have been passed, a considerable number of cities and other districts are furnishing books without any legal authorization. This does not refer to books for indigent children. In nine of these 16 states, legal provision is made for free textbooks for such children—Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, New Mexico, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.* The regulations in the different states differ somewhat, but the principal features are the same.

[The article here gives a complete digest of the laws of all the states relating to free textbooks.]

UNIFORMITY OF TEXTBOOKS.

In some of the states classed as "uniform textbook" states the adopted books must be used as basic texts in all public schools, elementary and secondary, and in all districts; in others, high schools are permitted to select for themselves; and in others, city districts and special tax districts may adopt whatever books they may desire. State uniformity does not, therefore, necessarily mean that all books used in public schools in the state are the same in each subject.

Laws for state uniformity have been enacted for many reasons. Probably the reason which has carried the greatest weight in causing the passage of legislation has been the question of cost. State adoption of uniform books has been taken as a means of regulating prices to prevent sales at exorbitant prices or at prices greater than the same books are sold in other places. In this the plan on the whole has been successful. State adoptions are made under regulations requiring contract prices with deposits of bonds to be forfeited in case of any violations of the terms of the contracts. It is undoubtedly true that lower prices prevailed after state uniformity had been established and adoptions made. Textbook publishers could afford to make lower prices when all of the schools in the state were required to use their books, as the cost of selling was then made comparatively small. The high prices formerly paid were often the work of the local dealers rather than of the publishers. The legislation providing state adoptions has in all cases set the price to be paid by the users and has therefore prevented local dealers from overcharging. The establishment of state uniformity for state adoptions in 24 states has caused lower prices in other states; in many instances legislation has been passed prohibiting the sale of books in a state at prices higher "than such books are sold for elsewhere under similar conditions." Prices for which books are sold in 32 of the 24 "uniformity" states are given in Table 5.

The second reason for the adoption of state uniformity has been the desire to secure for all districts of the state equally good books. The state textbook commission when composed of persons of wide experience in education is more competent to select books than the average school board. State adoptions have driven a large number of unfit books out of use, including some books never satisfactory from a pedagogical standpoint and others satisfactory at some time, but not conforming in content or arrangement to present ideas and not adaptable to present methods of teaching.

Other advantages of state uniformity are the saving of expense for new books when families move from one district to another, and the comparative ease with which a state course of study can be made and followed when the same texts are used throughout the state.

On the other hand, there are many disadvantages. State adoptions put into the hands of a few in each state the awarding of contracts which determine whether or not any publisher may do business in the state. Each publisher, therefore, must use all legitimate means to secure the adoption of his books, and the temptations to use illegitimate means are many. It is believed by many people that publishers resort frequently to bribery. It is undoubtedly true that bribery has played a part in some instances, but the number of instances is very much smaller than is usually imagined. There are many other ways, however, in which influences may be brought to bear on members of textbook boards which consciously or otherwise become factors in the selection of books.

One of the principal objections to state adoptions is that adoptions must be for definite periods, in practice from 4 to 8 years. A book once adopted must remain the basic text for the entire period, regardless of better books that may become available or data included which may become out of date.

Another objection is that in many subjects books suitable for one locality are not suitable for another, on account of the character or employment of the people or on account of the character of the school. In the past most textbooks have been prepared by educators engaged in city work and the books were made for the city children and city school conditions; such books often are not suitable books for a rural school. Books best suited to the nine-months' school year of a city with graded schools usually are not best for the six-months school year in a rural ungraded one-teacher school a dozen miles from the city. Books best suited for a factory town with a large percentage of American born children usually are not the best for the neighboring mining town with a large percentage of foreign born.

Many of these objections may be met in part by the selection of several texts on each subject by the state textbook commission, allowing the local authorities to choose from among the number of those best suited to local needs. This is done in several states, as, for example, in Ohio.

In favor of local adoptions, it may be said that there is a growing movement on the part of school trustees to allow the school superintendents, where professional educators are employed as superintendents, to select the texts for them. This is particularly true in several States with the county unit of administration, and in most of the States with the township unit of school administration. For instance, a study made in Massachusetts in 1900 by Mr. John T. Prince, agent of the State Board of Education, showed that in 233 cities and towns from which information was obtained the superintendents had full power of selection in 92; joint power with the school board in 44; advisory power only in 85; and no power whatever in the remaining 12. There are 283 cities and towns in the State. Since that time practically all cities and towns in Massachusetts have given the superintendent full choice.

Many of the arguments for and against State adoptions are used for or against county adoptions. Many educators, however, are advocating, as a happy medium between State uniformity and local district adoption, county or township adoptions, according to the unit of organization in the various States for administration purposes. The practice in the various States is summarized in the following pages:

STATE UNIFORMITY

Regulations for uniform textbooks for public schools are in force in 24 States: Alabama, Arizona, California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, and West Virginia. In these States a State board selects the basic textbooks for the public schools. In 11 of these States this board is the State Board of Education; in 3 the State Board of Education or a part of the board, together with additional appointed members; in 1 the State board of control of institutions of higher learning; and in the 9 others special textbook boards.

The 11 States in which the State boards of education select textbooks are Arizona, California, Delaware, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Carolina, and Virginia. In Georgia the State Board of Education is assisted by a "sub-commission," composed of teachers and superintendents appointed by the Governor. This sub-commission examines all textbooks submitted relative to their merits, taking no consideration of the prices. It reports to the State board its first, second, and third choice of books on each subject. The State board makes the adoption, taking into consideration the report of the sub-commission and the prices and quality of the books submitted. The sub-commission has no vote; its function is purely advisory.

In Idaho, in practice, the selection is made by a sub-committee of the State Board of Education, consisting of 4 persons. The names of the 4 persons who from time to time constitute the membership of this sub-committee are not publicly announced. The State superintendent notifies publishers when adoptions are to be made and requests 4 samples of books on the subject to be adopted, together with contracts and prices. The samples and contracts submitted by the publishers are turned over by the State superintendent to the sub-committee of the State board and considered by them. The sub-committee in this way is able to make adoptions wholly on the merits of the books submitted, uninfluenced by arguments presented by the publishers.

The 3 States in which the State Board of Education forms a part of the textbook board are North Carolina, Nevada, and Tennessee.* The North Carolina Board of Education is assisted by a sub-commission composed of teachers and superintendents appointed by the Governor, with functions similar to those of the Georgia sub-commission. The adoption, however, is made by the State board and the sub-commission sitting together in executive session, the members of both bodies voting. In Nevada the textbook commission consists of the State board, with the addition of 4 persons appointed by the Governor. In Tennessee the board is composed of 3 members, the State Board of Education selected by the Governor, and the Governor and the State superintendent of public instruction. This textbook commission selects a sub-commission of 5 teachers and superintendents who make an examination of all books submitted and report on their merits, irrespective of price. The members of the sub-commission have no vote in the final adoption.

In Florida the State board of control for the State institutions of higher learning is the textbook commission. This board is selected for the work rather than the State Board of Education, because the State Board of Education is a board composed of ex-officio officers at the State capitol. In the selection of textbooks, the board is assisted by a sub-commission of 9 members, including 4 county superintendents and 5 teachers. The sub-commission has powers and duties similar to those of the sub-commission in Georgia, having no vote in the final selection of books.

In the other 9 States that have made State adoptions, special textbook commissions are provided. The board is usually the State superintendent and from 5 to 9 persons engaged in educational work, appointed by the Governor.

Few definite qualifications are required in any of the States for appointment to the various textbook commissions. In several instances the law requires that teachers or superintendents be appointed. In Texas the Governor must make his selection of 9 from a list of 30 prepared by a committeee of 3—the State superintendent, the president of the State University, and the president of the College of Industrial Arts. The requirement that no member of the committee shall be "interested in any publishing house" is quite general. Members are usually paid from $4 to $6 per day and expenses for the days actually employed. In 4 States the Governor is a member. In 2 States the presidents of State institutions of higher learning and of State normal schools are ex-officio members. In 2 States neither the State superintendent nor any member of the Board of Education is on the textbook commission or has any voice in the adoption. These States are Montana and Oregon. The Montana State board is in practice the board of regents of the State University, the State Agricultural and Mechanical College, and the State Normal School and has very few functions relative to the public elementary and secondary schools. In Oregon the State Board of Education is an ex-officio board, made up of State officers, the Governor, Secretary of State, and the State superintendent.

The tendency seems to be toward merging the State textbook commissions with the State boards of education wherever such boards are composed of appointed members and not of members serving in virtue of their election to some political position. In the 24 States with State uniformity of textbooks, 23 have State boards of education; Alabama has none. Six have ex-officio boards, composed of State officers elected to political positions; 16 have boards composed of appointive members or appointive members with ex-officio members, distributed among the Governor, the State superintendents, presidents of State institutions, and others. There seems also to be a tendency toward the appointment of sub-committees of teachers and superintendents to make preliminary examinations of books without reference to prices.

*In Utah the State superintendent, the president of the State university, and the president of the State agricultural college are ex-officio members of both the State Board of Education and the State Textbook Board.

It will be noted that only 5 of the 15 States with mandatory free textbooks for all public elementary schools have State uniformity in textbooks, and that 2 of these 5 are States in which the free textbooks are furnished by the State, purchased from State funds, and remain the property of the State, so that State uniformity is practically necessary.

Adoptions are for various periods, ranging from four to eight years. In 13 States it is for five years, in 4 for six years. In only a minority of the States is any provision made for changing a book before the period of adoption is ended, even when the book proves on trial to be unsatisfactory.

DISTRIBUTION

Methods of distribution have been designated by law in some of the uniform textbook States, but not in others. In general, it may be said that publishers receiving contracts in any State are required to establish a State depository or county depositories. When a State depository is required, county selling agencies, as a rule, must be established. In practice, it is customary for all firms receiving contracts in a State to unite in establishing a single State depository which handles all the State-adopted books for all of the firms. Often some already established business house is designated as a State depository. Each firm pays to the management of the depository a commission on sales. The depository contract provides that the depository shall maintain "absolute neutrality" between publishers whose books it distributes.

The formation of these depositories is purely a business arrangement for economy in management and efficiency in distribution, since in but few instances are the sales in any State of any single firm great enough to warrant the establishment of a separate depository to handle its business. In a few States where individual firms are doing an especially large business, independent depositories have been established; in Georgia, for instance, two firms maintain their own depositories apart from the general depository.

The fact that publishers have united in establishing single State depositories has often been cited as evidence of a "book trust." Investigation, however, of the conduct of the depositories does not show any reason for a belief in the existence of such a trust.

Publishers distribute State-adopted books from State depositories in 21 of the 24 uniform textbook States: Alabama, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, and West Virginia. As already noted, certain cities and towns in these States are not required to use the State-adoped books. The States bind the publishers by contracts, protected by bonds guaranteed by surety companies, to have their books constantly on sale at the depositories at the prices fixed by the State boards of education or the school-book commissions, and also in one or more places in every county of the States. Publishers are either expressly required, as in North Carolina, to "maintain one or more joint State depositories at some convenient distributing point or points in the State," or are practically required to do so, as in Alabama, where they must establish one or more depositories subject to the approval of the State textbook commission. In some instances even the terms of discount, etc., are prescribed by the State board or by the commission, the depository, however, being required, as stated, to maintain "absolute neutrality" between the publishers whose books it distributes.

For the convenience of the merchants and the school children of these States, the publishers have, when a central depository has not been designated by the State Board of Education or State textbook commission, selected one or more merchants located at the most convenient points of distribution, railroad facilities being considered, to act as their general distributing agents. From these general depositories the local agencies obtain all the State-adopted books, thus saving time, trouble, and expense incident to ordering from different places in the State or from the many contracting publishers. This arrangement is manifestly in the interest of the selling agencies and the school children, allowing the agencies, as it does, to secure all the adopted books at a central point in their own State and the children to obtain their books at convenient places when they need them. Publishers are also required by the majority of the States working under the State-adoption plan to mail postpaid or to ship by express or freight to any person ordering, if his order is accompanied by cash, a single copy or any number of copies of the State books at State prices. A citizen has, therefore, the option of ordering from the central depository, the local dealer, or the publisher.

In order to insure the selling of books to school children at State prices, the publishers are sometimes required to stamp upon the back covers of the books which they furnish under their contracts both the retail and the exchange prices. It is made by law the duty of the county superintendent to report to the State superintendent of schools every case known to him of overcharge on the part of a merchant selling or exchanging at a price higher than the State contract price. Both the State authorities and the publishers have tried to work out a plan of selling State-adopted books so that the books may be obtained easily and promptly by the local agents, so that school children may obtain the authorized books without delay when needed, and so that books may be always obtained at the same price.

The practice in the uniform textbook States, as reported mainly by the State superintendents, are as follows:

Alabama.—The firm of Loveman, Joseph &

Loeb, Birmingham, Ala., is the State depository agreed upon by all publishers securing contracts. The State depository must maintain at least three sub-depositories in each county. Many more than the minimum number have been established.

Arizona.—A cental depository is maintained at Phoenix, The H. H. McNeil Co. to handle all State-adopted textbooks.

California.—Books are printed and distributed from the State printing plant.

Delaware.—Local school authorities order books directly from the publishers. There is no State depository.

Florida.—The contract of the State textbook commission with the publishers provides that a State depository may be required, but up to the present time the commission has not required one. Many of the books are obtained through the Southern School Book Depository at Atlanta, Ga.; others are obtained direct from the publishers.

Georgia.—The American Book Co. and Ginn & Co. have each a depository in Atlanta; the Southern School Book Depository is the State depository for all other publishers whose textbooks have been adopted in the State. In addition, there are maintained from one to three agencies with mercantile supply houses in each county.

Idaho.—Four State depositories are designated by the State board in its contracts with book companies. They are located at Boise, Cœur d'Alene, Lewiston, and Pocatello.

Indiana.—Each county superintendent designates a dealer in the county as county depository. This dealer is required to sell to all other dealers in the county at a discount of 10 per cent. from the contract price. The law provides that when a township trustee or a school board requests to be appointed as depository for his or its school corporation the county superintendent must make the appointment.

Kansas.—The publishers securing contracts for furnishing school books are required to establish agencies in different parts of the State. They have united in establishing a State depository known as the Kansas Book Co., located at Topeka.

Kentucky.—Books for the State are handled by one house, the State Book Depository, Louisville, Ky.

Louisiana.—The State Board of Education requires publishers to select a central depository and that this depository shall establish in the different counties a number of local depositories. The central depository is F. F. Hansell & Bro., New Orleans.

Mississippi.—Under the laws of the State, textbook companies are required to establish one State depository through which all the books used in the State are distributed. This depository, under the supervision of the Department of Education, establishes as many selling agencies in each county as may seem necessary. The Southern School Book Depository, Jackson, Miss., is the State depository.

Montana.—The W. A. Moore Book & Stationery Co., Helena, is the general State depository for the publishers of all the textbooks adopted by the State textbook commission.

Nevada.—The firm of Gray, Reid, Wright Co., at Reno, has acted as a general depository. Under the new free textbook system, according to the State superintendent, a general depository or agency will be established.

New Mexico.—A central depository. Charles Ilfeld Co., Albuquerque, has been maintained by publishers of the textbooks adopted by the State. State Superintendent White says that the method of distribution has proved very satisfactory and will undoubtedly be continued.

North Carolina.—A central State depository handles the textbooks adopted for the entire State, arranging local depositories in each county. Alford Williams & Co., of Raleigh, is the State depository.

Oklahoma.—The Oklahoma Book Co., Oklahoma City, is the State depository handling all adopted textbooks for the State.

Oregon.—The State textbook commission enters into a contract with the publishers whereby the latter agree to keep their textbooks for sale in certain designated towns of each county. The number varies from 2 to 27 in the various counties. Books are distributed to the local dealers through one house in Portland, the J. K. Gill Co.

South Carolina.—A general State depository has been established at Columbia, the R. L. Bryan Co., to handle all State-adopted textbooks. This depository is required to operate at least three local depositories in each county unless a smaller number is authorized by the State Board of Education.

Tennessee.—The law requires that the textbook commission shall designate a depository in each of the three grand divisions of the State. These three are located at Jackson, Nashville, and Knoxville. The commission, however, has established four others—at Cookville, Clarksville, Memphis, and Chattanooga—for greater convenience in the distribution of books. They have assigned a definite number of counties to each depository. The number of counties supplied by each is as follows: Jackson, 16; Nashville, 29; Knoxville, 28; Cookville, 6; Clarksville, 4; Memphis, 6; Chattanooga, 7. In addition, one to eight book dealers in each county have been designated as local county depositories.

Texas.—The law requires publishing companies receiving the contract for textbooks to establish at least one general State depository. There are three established: the Southern School Book Depository, Texas School Book Depository, and Ginn & Co., all of Dallas.

Utah.—The Deseret News Book Store and the MacMillan Paper & Supply Co., Salt Lake City, act as State depositories and furnish books to school boards at the contract price made by book companies whose texts have been adopted. Their commission for the sale of books is made with the publishers.

Virginia.—Textbooks are distributed through a central depository known as the Virginia Book Co., Inc., located at Richmond.

West Virginia.—The law makes no specific plan relative to distribution except to specify that there must be at least three depositories in each county. A single State depository has been established by the publishers having contracts for books in the State, the James & Law Co., of Clarksburg, as a central State depository from which books are obtained by the local depositories in each county. State Superintendent Shawkey states that the plan has worked very satisfactorily.

COUNTY UNIFORMITY

County uniformity of textbooks is found in six States: Arkansas, Maryland, Missouri, South Dakota, Washington, and Wisconsin, and is permissive in Iowa upon majority vote of the county at any election. Fifty-three counties of 99 in the State have adopted it. The board selecting the books in Maryland and Washington is the county board of education; in the other four States special textbook boards, composed in three cases of the county superintendent and a certain number of teachers, and in Wisconsin of five teachers elected at the annual convention of the district school boards of the county. Members of the boards are paid from $2 to $5 per day for time actually spent in this work. In Arkansas, Missouri, and Washington county textbook commissions must make their selections from lists of books which, with prices and samples, have been deposited with the State superintendent. Otherwise county boards in all six States are free to select whatever books seem desirable. Contracts are made with publishers similar to those made in States with State adoptions. Books, as a rule, are adopted for five years. As Maryland furnishes all pupils with free textbooks, the county boards purchase the books. For the most part they are purchased from booksellers in the State, who annually bid on the list of books needed for the ensuing year. The successful bidders order direct from the publishers. In Washington, State distribution is made through two general depositories, one at Seattle and one at Spokane, to which most publishers ship books and from which points the books are distributed as ordered by merchants, booksellers, or school boards in the State.

OTHER STATES

The 18 States with neither State nor county uniformity include 8 in which the unit of organization for administrative purposes is the city and local school district, 9 in which it is the township, and 1, Ohio, in which in 1914 the township unit was changed to the county unit. No change, however, was made in the manner of selecting textbooks, so that in this Ohio remains with the States on the township basis. In 10 of these 18 States there is uniformity in each township, in the other 8 each local district selects its own books. In Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, and Wyoming books are purchased from a local dealer or from publishers, but only such books may be used in school as are published by firms who have deposited price list and samples with the State superintendents, and also filed bonds of from $2000 to $20,000 to sell to purchasers in the State books as good in quality as the sample submitted and at the prices quoted. In Ohio and Iowa school boards purchase all books, and except in free-book districts sell them to pupils at cost.

CO-OPERATION BETWEEN AUTHOR AND PUBLISHER IN THE MAKING OF TEXT BOOKS

By J. F. Brown of the Macmillan Co. Read before the Convention of the National Education Association

Intelligent co-operation between author and publisher must be based upon mutual understanding of the factors that enter into the making and the selling of a good book. It is the purpose of this paper to outline those factors.

The main factors in making a successful school book and in making a school book successful are—1, the author's knowledge of the subject; 2, the author's knowledge of the conditions under which this subject matter will be taught, that is, his knowledge of the conditions under which the book is to be used; 3, the author's ability to adapt the treatment of the subject matter to these conditions; 4, the publisher's skill in making the book attractive materially; 5, the publisher's ability to promote the book effectively through advertising and agency work.

If author and publisher were each perfect in his own field the work of book making and book selling would go merrily on with no other co-operation than that involved in turning the finished manuscript into the finished book and then marketing the book. Unfortunately, or perhaps fortunately, neither author nor publisher is perfect and there are consequently many opportunities for co-operation to their mutual advantage. Moreover, in actual performance it is impossible to draw the line between the author's work and the publisher's work as sharply as has just been suggested. With the author's knowledge of the subject matter the publisher has nothing to do; for the publisher's promotion work the author has no responsibility; but in the actual making of the book, with respect to both content and form, there is room for cordial co-operation.

1. That thorough knowledge of subject matter on the part of the author has always been regarded as an important element in book making, is evidenced by the fact that famous scholars have had an important part in the making of well known and highly successful textbooks, for example, McGuffey in reading, Huxley in physiology, Olney and Loomis in mathematics, and Harkness in Latin —not to mention more modern successful textbook authors. Thorough scholarship is absolutely necessary, for it is important to avoid not merely erroneous statements but also mistaken emphasis. Only the scholar who sees the subject as a whole is adequately equipped to present it so that all its parts shall stand in proper relation to one another, and the subject as a whole stand in proper relation to other subjects. The book that does not represent sound scholarship has no claim to lasting merit although other qualities may bring it temporary success.

2. But sound scholarship alone will not produce a successful book. If it did the path of the publisher would be strewn with flowers, for there are scholars galore who would lend willing ear to the publisher's invitation to prepare a book that should be a real and important service educationally, as well as a success commercially. If a book is to have in it promise of success, it must represent not only sound scholarship but also a knowledge of the conditions under which the subject is to be taught. Chief among these conditions are the program of studies in which the subject is included and the place that it occupies in that program, methods of teaching the subject in use in the schools, the interests and ability of students, the qualifications of teachers, and a knowledge of other similar books.

In this country, with rare exceptions, programs of study are not the product of highly centralized authority. On the other hand, like Topsy, they have "just growed," and they show to a marked degree the influence of environment. A few states, notably New York State, have organized the school courses of study from a central office, and the College Entrance Requirements have been a persistent and unifying influence everywhere, but there still remain considerable differences. If an author expects his book to be useful in a wide field he must be more or less acquainted with program conditions the country over. It is useless to prepare a book on floriculture when the schools demand only a one year course covering the whole field of general agriculture, and it is almost equally useless to prepare a book on general agriculture when the schools have gone beyond that stage and are giving half-year or year courses in field crops, soils, horticulture, animal husbandry, dairy farming, farm management, farm machinery, etc. It is not profitable to prepare books on the history of Greece and Rome each of them providing a year's work in the high school when the pressure of their subjects is driving all of ancient history into a brief semester's work.

Books are sometimes undertaken without adequate knowledge on the part of the author of purposes and methods prevailing in the schools. It is the merest chance if they succeed. For example, a book that may be admirable for the teaching of modern languages according to the direct method will surely fail if the direct method is not used. On the other hand, a book that looks towards the attainment of a reading knowledge only will not be satisfactory for use in schools where mastery of the spoken language is particularly emphasized. A book should be designed for one field or the other or it should be definitely planned to meet the needs of both. It has been but a few years since a science book that provided a large amount of laboratory work would have failed. Now a book that does not provide adequately for laboratory work is sure to fail. * * *

Another determining factor in the making of a good textbook is found in a knowledge of the interests and abilities of boys and girls. It seems to be human nature not only to scorn but also to forget the base degrees by which we did arise. To the scholar in any field the fundamental principles of his science become so familiar that he forgets he did not always know them, and he is often quite unable to appreciate the fact that every one else does not know them as well as he does. A friend of mine, a university professor of mathematics, once told me that he had left the teaching of trigonometry to the younger members of the department because he had taught the higher mathematics so long that he could not appreciate the point of view of the freshman and the difficulties that the study of trigonometry presented. He was a wise man. College professors sometimes think that there is not much difference between college freshmen and high school students, and knowing the freshman they think they ought to know the high school student also. They forget that in the college they have a selected company, that the conditions under which college students work are very different from those under which high school students work, and most important of all, that the changes in boys and girls at this age are often so rapid as to defy all calculation. There is absolutely nothing that will take the place of a first-hand knowledge on the part of the author of the interests and abilities of boys and girls. * * *

Another thing that the author should know concerning the conditions under which his proposed book is to be used is the scholarship, training, and point of view of the teachers of the subject. It is interesting to note that in every serious discussion looking towards the improvement of the teaching of any school subject, the pivotal point is found in the training of the teachers. New emphasis and a different selection and arrangement of material may be desirable, but they cannot be carried into execution without well trained teachers. Moreover, one feels that if teachers were as well trained as they ought to be satisfactory results would be obtained without so much formal attention to emphasis and materials. It is amusing, though not less significant on that account, that thoughtful teachers, particularly those in the college field, feel so keenly the need of better trained teachers in their own particular line of work. * * *

To these four points should be added another, namely, a knowledge of books already in the field. If there are no such books any attempt to write one must be regarded as an experiment. If there are books already available, the would-be author should consider carefully both their good qualities and the points at which they fail to satisfy. If after examining them all and acquainting himself with the needs of the field he is not convinced that he can write a better book than has yet appeared, it is well for him, for the publisher, and for the educational public that he desist from an undertaking which would probably be neither useful educationally nor profitable financially.

If at this point in the story some one feels that the suggestions thus far presented are trite, commonplace, and useless because certainly no author would attempt to write a book without first thoroughly examining the field for which it is designed, the answer is found in the fact familiar to every editorial department that authors not infrequently attempt books which they are sure are admirably adapted for use in the public schools, high schools, normal schools, and colleges of the country. Many a manuscript is returned to the author not because it is not good in itself but because it is planned for an ideal condition which does not exist in fact.

Up to this stage in the development of the project the burden rests upon the author. The publisher can do little except to urge the author to acquaint himself fully with the field as suggested. In some cases he can help to supply needed information, but the author's knowledge must be drawn from the field itself rather than from the editorial files of the publisher.

3. What has been said thus far must be regarded as wholly preliminary to the preparation of the book. It is but the skirmish before the battle. The test of the author's success and of the value of his work to the publisher and to the educational public, comes in his effort to plan his book wisely, to select and to organize his material, to express his thought in simple effective English, to put his manuscript into good form, and to read proof with accuracy.

An author no less than a preacher should have a message and profound faith in its saving power. If he has carefully considered all the facts in the case, he is entitled to the privilege of stating that message according to his own plan. * * *

Co-ordinate with the planning of a book is the selection of material to be included in it and the relative emphasis to be placed upon different parts. Each determines the other to some extent and is in turn determined by it. Current educational thought is demanding a closer defintion of the purpose in the teaching of every subject and a wiser selection of material adapted to the attainment of that purpose. In Germany the subject matter to be taught is defined in minute detail by state authority. In the United States it is determined largely by the textbook and the whim of the individual teacher. Until some centralized educational authority defines both the end and the means more closely than has yet been done in this country, the author will continue to have a pretty free hand in the selection of material. This is an important and perfectly definite problem involving not merely selection but as corollaries thereto both elimination and emphasis. * * *

Good English is an absolutely essential factor in a book of the highest type. Everything that contributes to making the English effective is important—grammatical usage, clear cut sentences, concreteness, good diction, a simple style, accurate punctuation. A book that is seriously defective in English sometimes achieves success because of other merits, but it would have been more useful had it been better written. There are a few people who have every quality of a good author except the ability to write well. The services of these people are too valuable to lose provided they are willing to give an editor free hand in whipping their product into shape. It is an excellent practice for such an author or any author to submit his manuscript for critical reading and revision to an English expert who is not acquainted with the subject matter. The experienced writer knows the value of searching criticism and welcomes it. It is the inexperienced author who is likely to be most jealous of his right to express himself as he chooses regardless of rhetorical rules. Every editor of experience is acquainted with the manuscript that has apparently been written without any thought of the English used. In some cases it is beyond redemption. In others, careful, skilled revision is all that is necessary to make it passable. The wise editor will save the spirit and the language of the author as much as possible, but he will cut and recast mercilessly where it is necessary to do so. And the wise author will welcome the change even though it may wound his pride. He may console himself with the thought that his is the minor fault. * * *

4. When the manuscript is accepted the burden of responsibility passes from the author to the publisher. The latter's first problem is to make the book up as attractively as possible. This involves questions of typography, illustration, paper, and binding. It is not possible to go into details in the discussion of these points.* * *

It is no disparagement of the author's talents to say that he seldom has anything of value to contribute in determining the material form of the work. An occasional exception does not disprove the general rule.

5. Once the book is off the press it must be sold, and that it may be sold it must be advertised. This, too, falls to the publisher's share of the co-operative effort. In many cases the advertising will have been begun before the book is published. In the preparation of advertising material the author can be of material assistance, for he should know better than anyone else the characteristic features of the book, and it is upon a frank, effective statement of these rather than upon any yellow or red or green outcry that the successful advertising of the book must depend. The main media of advertising are two, letters, announcements, catalogues, etc., sent through the mail, and the advertising pages of newspapers and magazines. Against the former method of attack, so vigorously used by publishers, teachers and school officials are helpless, except that they are free to drop such matter into the waste basket without looking at it, a privilege of which they undoubtedly avail themselves in many instances. The advertising pages of newspapers and magazines are harmless and need not claim the attention of anyone, unless he is already interested or unless they perchance are so well written as to compel unwilling attention. In any case they are expensive for the publisher and although he is glad to use them to a liberal extent, there is a limit beyond which he dare not go. Unfortunately, his notion of what that limit is does not always coincide exactly with that of the author.

Of the efforts of the agency force in selling books, little can be said that is pertinent here. Field agents are a necessity for any publishing house that does an extensive business in school books, but they are much more than merely commercial agents. As a class they are capable, energetic men and great promoters of successful educational ideals and practices. They carry the author's message everywhere. Acquaintance between author and agents is likely to be mutually helpful and to lead to mutual respect and confidence. But the burden of directing agency work rests wholly upon the publisher.

To summarize, of the five main parts in the making of a book the first two belong almost exclusively to the author, the last two almost exclusively to the publisher, while the third calls for hearty, intelligent co-operation between them.

In conclusion, it may be said that the co-operative efforts of authors and publishers rank very high among the constructive activities of American education. A book often makes a new method or even a new course of study. Under existing conditions of free, sharp competition among authors and among publishers the inferior or even the mediocre book is not likely long to survive. The really superior book is an important educational message and it may bring to both author and publisher a fair return for their expenditure of effort and capital in producing it. From the business point of view a new book is an uncertain investment. From an educational point of view it is a serious responsibility. Good business and sound educational philosophy alike would impose upon both author and publisher the policy of bringing no book from the press that is not just as good as it can be made.

STATE PUBLICATION OF TEXTBOOKS IN KANSAS

By W. D. Ross, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

From the organization of the State school system up to 1897, Kansas school boards in rural districts as well as in cities had the power to select the books used in their schools, except that in 1885 a law was enacted providing for optional county uniformity. This law was, however, taken advantage of by very few counties. In 1897, owing to a popular feeling that school books were costing more than they should, as well as on account of the frequent changes that took place and the objectionable methods of some of the book companies in bringing them about and securing adoptions, a law providing for State uniformity of common-school textbooks and fixing a maximum price was passed. In 1899 the law was extended to cover high-school texts.

This legislation remained in force until 1913. But it was always subject to more or less criticism. The complaints came from many who believed that the prices were so low that the book companies could not or would not submit their best books, and from others who felt that even the best books submitted were sometimes not selected. The first feeling was well founded, but the second, except in a few cases, much less so.

The result of constant dissatisfaction and agitation, however, was the passage, in 1913, of a law making an appropriation of $150,000 for additional room and equipment for the State printing plant, and providing for the State publication of textbooks.

The only contracts upon common-school books that have expired since the enactment of the law were those on the primer, Kansas history, and agriculture. And these books have now been published by the State.

The primer was written by a Kansas primary teacher and illustrated by a New York artist at a total cost to the State of $4500 for perpetual Kansas rights—$2000 for the manuscripts and $2500 for illustrating, including plates. The author of the Kansas history was a Kansas county superintendent who received $3500 for a five-year copyright privilege on the manuscript, including illustrations, but not plates. The agriculture was prepared by various members of the Kansas State Agricultural College without cost to the State except for the expense of securing pictures—a total of some $200.

In addition to these books a volume of English classics for the seventh grade and another for the eighth grade have been published. These books were made up mostly of uncopyright material, with a few selections upon which copyright privilege was purchased, at a total cost of $500, including editorial work.

The primer contains 144 pages and retails for 14 cents.

The Kansas history contains 250 pages and retails for 25 cents.

The agriculture contains 473 pages and retails for 35 cents.

Each volume of classics contains 384 pages and retails for 20 cents.

For carrying on the work of State publication the law created the State school-book commission, consisting of the State superintendent of public instruction, the president of the State normal school, the president of the State agricultural college, the State printer, the president of the State board of agriculture, and two other persons to be appointed by the governor.

The 1913 act provided that:

SECTION 3. The said school-book commission shall, as soon as practicable, adopt, write, select, compile, or cause to be written, or compiled, or purchase copyrights for a complete series of school textbooks for use in the public schools in the State of Kansas, or may contract for the right to publish any or all of such books on the payment of an agreed royalty therefor. The said series of school textbooks shall consist of one spelling book; one primer; one each, first, second, third, fourth, and fifth reader; one each, elementary, intermediate, and advanced written arithmetic; one oral arithmetic; one each, elementary and advanced geography; one each, elementary and advanced English grammar; one each, elementary and advanced physiology and hygiene; one history of the United States; one history of the State of Kansas; one civil government and Constitution of the United States, and of the State of Kansas; one elements of agriculture and stock raising; one system of penmanship; textbooks containing collection of masterpieces of American and English literature, one each, for the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grades, and such other textbooks as, in the judgment of the school-book commission, may be desirable to publish or procure for use in the public schools of the State.

SECTION 4. The State school-book commission shall have the power, and is hereby authorized to have written or compiled, or to purchase the several textbooks, and manuscripts to be used in the public schools, and shall fix the remuneration of authors and compilers, and compensation for other necessary services in the preparation and publication of said books. Said State school-book commission shall also have the power to procure copyrights for the State of Kansas of any school textbook, manuscript, or subject matter thereof, authorized by the provisions of this act, and to contract with authors and publishers upon a royalty basis, upon an exclusive right to publish and use in the State of Kansas any school textbook written or published by them. The State school-book commission shall furnish to the State printer copy and design for all diagrams and illustrations to be used in any school textbook published by the State under the provisions of this act.

SECTION 5. The printing of all textbooks published by the State, and provided for in section 3 of this act, and all mechanical work connected therewith, shall be done by and under the supervision of the State printer, at the State printing plant.

It will be observed that in the sections quoted above high-school books were not specifically mentioned, and since only such parts of the 1897-1899 textbook law were repealed as were in conflict with that of 1913, it followed that if high-school texts were adopted instead of published, it could be only under the maximum price restrictions of the earlier act.

On this account and for other reasons the legislature of 1915 amended section 3 of the 1913 act, as quoted above, to read as follows:

The said State school-book commission shall, as soon as, and when practicable, print, publish, or provide for the publication of a complete series of school textbooks, as hereinafter mentioned, for use in the public schools, including the high schools, in the State of Kansas. Also they shall provide, by adoption, under the provisions of the law, for such books of the hereinafter-mentioned series as they find it impossible or impracticable to print or publish. They may also write, select, compile, or cause to be written or compiled, or purchase the copyright or contract the right to publish all such books by the payment of an agreed royalty therefor. The said series of school textbooks shall consist of one spelling book, one primer, one each first, second, third, fourth, and fifth reader; one each, elementary and advanced arithmetic; one each, elementary and advanced geography; one each, elementary and advanced grammar; one each, elementary and advanced physiology and hygiene; a primary and an advanced history of the United States; a history of the State of Kansas; one civil government of the United States and of the State of Kansas; one elements of agriculture and stock raising; one system of penmanship; a graded system of drawing books; textbooks containing collections of masterpieces of American and English literature, for the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grades; algebra (elementary and advanced); geometry (including both plane and solid); Latin grammar; Latin exercises; Cæsar; Cicero; Virgil; English composition; English history; English literature; ancient history; medieval and modern history; rhetoric; botany, chemistry; zoology; word analysis; geology; physical geography; complete texts in German and French (including exercises, grammar, readers, and classics); descriptive astronomy; and a bookkeeping text. Such books to be equal in subject-matter, material, binding, and mechanical execution and approximately in size to the books named in sections 7318 and 7833 of the general statutes of Kansas of 1909. The said State school-book commission may adopt, print, or publish, as in their opinion may be desirable or practicable, other textbooks in addition to the books enumerated above and may approve textbooks in subjects not enumerated above for special courses, to meet the needs and requirements of the courses of study prescribed for use in the public schools, including the high schools of the State; provided, that the State school book commission shall have authority to so vary the period of adoption for high school classics as to meet the college entrance requirements: Provided further, That the State school-book commission shall not contract with any person, company, or corporation for any of the books provided for in this act at a price in excess of the lowest price at which such book or books are sold for use in any other State, county, city, or district. The distribution of all textbooks adopted under the provisions of this section shall be according to the provisions of section 7820 of the general statutes of Kansas of 1909 except as relates to the 15 per cent. commission, allowed in this act: And provided further, That any person, persons, company, or corporation who shall contract to furnish textbooks adopted under the provisions of section 1 of this act shall take up any textbooks previously in use and displaced by said adoption which may be offered to the contracting publishers or their agents within one year after the beginning of said contract and shall allow for such displaced books in exchange for new books in the same branch an amount not less than the highest amount allowed on the lowest price in any other State, county, city, or district, and which said amount shall be specifically set out in each bid. Said exchanged books to be returned to the publishers or their agents within one year after the beginning of said contract according to their direction and at the expense of the said contracting publishers.

Under this provision the State school-book commission has just completed the adoption or approval of a complete list of high-school texts for the five-year period beginning May 1, 1915. The prices at which these books are to be furnished to dealers by the various publishers are uniformly 75 per cent. of the publishers' list price f. o. b. Chicago, with the privilege on the part of the State of immediate publication of the geometry from plates furnished by its publisher at a royalty of 28 per cent. on the list price, and a similar privilege as to the composition and rhetoric, physics, and Latin prose composition at the end of three years. It is, therefore, the plan of the State to print at once geometries for the use of pupils beginning next September.

In addition to those previously mentioned as having already been published, the commission is planning to publish as rapidly as possible a complete series of common-school books, existing adoptions upon all which expire within the next two years.

Owing to the limited appropriation of $100,000 available for publication purposes, however, it will probably be impossible to provide for the printing of more than half the list within that time.

UNIFORM ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS IN ENGLISH, 1915-1919.

Following is the list of books adopted by the National Conference on Uniform Entrance Requirements in English. The old name college Entrance Requirements, has been changed because this list is now widely used in many institutions other than those preparing distinctly for college. This list is identical with the list as published last year.

TENTATIVE PROGRAM OF FRENCH BOOK CONGRESS ANNOUNCED

THE thoroughness of the French plans to develop French products in preparation for the scramble of commercial readjustment after the war is well illustrated in the tentative program just announced by the committee in charge of the Book Congress to be held in Paris this summer. The committee consists of representatives of the Societé des Gens de lettres, the Circle de la librairie, and the Comité du livre. The discussion at the Congress is to be divided, according to the program, into the three following divisions: Book Manufacture, Widening the Market for French Books, and the Spread of French Culture.

Under the first of these, the various mechanical processes of bookmaking will be studied in their economic and social as well as in their technical aspects. Paper, binding cloth, etc., will be scrutinized in the light of customs figures, to the end that it may be found feasible to develop additional manufactories for certain of these articles in France or in French colonies.

In the matter of the commercial expansion of the French book-trade it is planned to compare the progress of Germany, England and the United States in the matter of collections of classics, popular encyclopaedias, and similar works, and to suggest modifications and amplifications of French editorial and publishing endeavor along these lines. An extensive study of music publishing will also be made. The work of the Booksellers' Association's technical courses in bookselling will be taken up and certain changes suggested which would better fit booksellers to enter the exporting field. German book-trade methods, publicity, advertising, etc., will be picked to pieces to find the secret of Germany's great export business.

In the matter of the spread of French culture the biggest drive will be made against pornographic literature, both to prevent its export and import. The question of the tariff in its relation to literature will also be threshed over; it is suggested in this connection, that, since so many French books are now printed in Germany and exported to France, there should be some legislative provision holding up imports of books in French and allowing free entry to books in foreign languages. Other matters to be discussed are the possible organization of various exchange student scholarships with other nations and ways and means to spread instruction in French among foreign peoples.

BULLOCK'S FOLLOWS KIPLING HOUR WITH STEVENSON HOUR

FOLLOWING the successful "Hour with Kipling," which we noted in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for April 15 and which subsequently received wide commendation throughout the trade, Bullock's department store in Los Angeles held on June 22 "An Hour with R. L. S." The Stevenson hour is the more interesting from the fact that it was held almost in mid-summer. As in the case of the former "afternoon," several hundred engraved invitations were sent out by the store with programmes handsomely printed on heavy, deckle-edge, hand-made paper. The programme, which we give below, was prepared under the direction of Miss Neely, of Bullock's book department, who also prepared the Kipling programme, and as in the former case Charles Farwell Edson was the soloist and reader with Miss Coe Martin at the piano. The hour was held in the attractive gray and rose tea room on the eighth floor of Bullock's store.

THE PROGRAMME:

Child's Garden of Verses—
- Bed in Summer.
- A Thought.
- Whole Duty of Children.
- Rain.
- Windy Nights.
- Travel.

Songs—
- Marching Song.
- Where Go the Boats.
- My Shadow. Music by Ella Duffield.

Miss Martin.
- System.
- Escape at Bedtime.
- The Wind.
- Time to Rise.

Songs—
- Foreign Children. Music by Alvin Scott Ormsby.
- By Bed's a Boat. Music by Ella Duffield.
- The Swing. Music by Ella Duffield.

Miss Martin.

Northwest Passage—
- Good Night.
- Shadow March.
- In Port.

The Child Alone—
- The Unseen Playmate.

Song—
My Ship and I. Music by Ella Duffield.

A Galloway Legend—
Christmas at Sea.

POSTAL NOTES

PRICE OF POSTAL GUIDE REDUCED

REALIZING THAT better knowledge of postal conditions and requirements on the part of the public means improved postal service, the government announces a decided reduction in the price of the Official Postal Guide, in the hope that more people may thus become familiar with the various postal regulations. The Guide, which formerly sold for $3.50 in cloth and $3 in paper, now sells for 75 cents and 65 cents. Correspondingly low prices are set upon the Abridged Guide, State List and Supplements.

CONGRESS ADOPTS POSTAL BILL—DEBATES PROVISION TO SEND PERIODICALS BY FREIGHT

THE conference report on the annual post office appropriation bill was approved by both Senate and House on July 8 and sent to President Wilson. The bill appropriates $322,000,000 and gives final word to the Interstate Commerce Commission in the matter of substituting the space for the weight basis as a method of paying for railway mail transportation.

Prior to the adoption of the conference report by the Senate, the Senate debated the proposal of the Post Office Department to compel the transportation of periodicals by freight when transportation by mail meant a loss to the government. Senator Bankhead, chairman of the Post Office committee, said that the Senate conferees had been obliged to recede from the Senate amendment on the subject in order to reach an agreement. Under the Senate plan, a periodical publisher had recourse to the United States Circuit Court in his state. The House insisted on compelling the publisher to come to Washington in case the Postmaster General ordered his publication sent by freight; then, if the case were decided against him, he could appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia.

Strenuous opposition to the House amendment came from a dozen Senators, who said that the publisher, if he lived at a great distance from Washington, would be put to great expense and hardship, also that a freight order would stand until final determination of the appeal was reached. Senator Smoot declared that it might be three years before a case could be decided and that the delay might mean ruin to small magazine publishers in the Far West.

Senator Gallinger and Senator Hoke Smith challenged the Senate to determine the cost of transporting periodical mail matter and then ask the publishers to pay that cost. Senator Smith said he knew the cost, and it was 5.81 more, exclusive of handling, than the government got for the service; if the handling was counted, the cost was 8.24 times as much.

NEW JERSEY BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION FORMED

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION EFFECTED AT PRINCETON AS GUESTS OF THE UNIVERSITY PRESS

THE Princeton University Press played host most delightfully at a meeting, Wednesday, of a few New Jersey and neighboring state booksellers at which a temporary state organization was effected, and plans for the future laid out.

The party gathered at Princeton during the morning by train and auto, Mr. Darrow, of the Press, being at the station in person to extend the glad hand of welcome. Autos were in readiness to convey the party to the Press itself, a real object of interest in its spaciousness and delightful working conditions and facilities. From there a two-hour sight-seeing round was made by auto, stopping to inspect the library and a few of its book rarities, the University bookstore, and the splendid new graduate college, but taking in incidentally all the university buildings, the new stadium, Carnegie Lake and Princeton village itself. The day was ideal and the party heartily enjoyed its sight-seeing.

By 1.30, after a preliminary round of drinks, tall, short and otherwise, on the cool veranda of the Nassau Club, lunch was in order—and a very good lunch it was, as witness the following:

MENU

Little Necks

Celery Hearts Radishes

Broiled Spring Chicken with Candied Sweet Potatoes

Lettuce and Tomato Salad

Cream and Roquefort Cheese

Raspberry Sherbet

Petites Gateaux

Cigars Cigarets

After luncheon the more serious business of the day was taken up, Mr. Shoemaker, on Mr. Darrow's introduction, acting as chairman of the meeting. Its object, the formation of a New Jersey Book-trade Association, was outlined in a few words by Mr. Shoemaker. Among those who made remarks were Mr. Herr, as representative of the national association; Mr. Charles E. Butler, representing the Board of Trade; and Mr. Darrow, Mr. Schindel and Mr. Reed for the New Jersey booksellers themselves. It was the consensus of the meeting that a New Jersey association should be formed, and after some further discussion the following tentative organization was effected: Chairman, Mr. Darrow; Treasurer, Mr. Reed; Secretary, Mr. Traver. All the New Jersey booksellers present constituted themselves an Executive and Membership Committee. It is planned to hold a second meeting early in the fall, at which a thoroughly representative attendance can be secured and a permanent organization effected.

Among those present were: Louis A. Keating, of Brooklyn, ex-secretary of the American Booksellers' Association; W. L. Butler, of Wilmington, ex-president; and Eugene L. Herr, of Lancaster, Pa., its treasurer; Mr. Herr's father, L. B. Herr; Charles E. Butler, of Brentano's; George J. Schindel, of Bamberger's, Newark; Fremont Rider, of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY; John L. Thompson (Scribners); C. C. Shoemaker (Penn Publishing Co.); Whitney Darrow, Sterling Galt, Jr., and E. C. Nelson, of the Princeton University Press; Clayton L. Traver, of Trenton; C. H. Reed and W. R. Reed, of New Brunswick; B. F. Bunn, of the Princeton University Book Store; Walter H. Cox, of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

COMMUNICATIONS

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A SUBSIDIZED AND NON-SUBSIDIZED BUSINESS—A BOOKSELLER ANSWERS A LIBRARIAN

Indianapolis, July 7, 1916.

Editor THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

I presume that a good many booksellers have read the letter in the issue of June 24 from Mr. Henry, librarian of the Washington Library, Seattle, with the wish that they might have a talk with Mr. Henry and perhaps give him a few ideas of the other side of the question that he so blithely approaches.

As he so keenly regrets that the book business is a money-making venture, he probably has equal regrets that doctors ever take money for their services instead of having all the medical work of the community done through the endowed institutions of city organization.

Mr. Henry is confident that if books were as adequately displayed as cigars the sales would be equal. He probably has some statistics to show this, but unless Seattle is a different community from the American cities with which I am familiar, I doubt if this would hold true. An examination of the book stocks in the large union stations of the country and the average turn of said stock compared to the turn of cigar stock would not seem to justify his conclusions.

Mr. Henry argues that the book-trade has essentially the same problems that the public library has, viz, the selection and distribution of books. That is quite true in so far as it states the problem of the library, but it has to be remembered that the library is an endowed institution and the bookstore is not; the bookseller must plan for his building and its financing—the librarian need not, except to apply to the Carnegie fund; the bookseller must raise capital for his stock—the library need not, since everyone contributes yearly. If the bookseller fails of his effort he not only loses his yearly income, but the capital invested. If the librarian fails of his efforts he may still be continued some years in his position with no loss of income; or if removed, he has lost his income but not his capital, which capital is still probably drawing a comfortable interest in a railroad investment.

Perhaps some such figures as these might be pertinent to his argument: a typical city of 75,000 inhabitants in the Middle West taxes itself about 20,000 dollars to support its public library, of which 10,000 goes in salaries to the personnel of the institution. To supply an equal amount in salaries, the bookstore would have to do from ninety to one hundred thousand dollars worth of business. No city of 75,000 that I am aware of has any such outlet for books, that is, the personnel of the bookstore must be weaker in that city than the library and the bookseller faces a much harder problem.

Personally, I have never heard of a librarian undertaking to run a bookstore; while it is a move that I think ought to be encouraged and the booksellers would like to see men of such training enter their work, the librarian would have to face even more sacrifice in energy and anxiety than he has ever faced in his present work. This I say with all confidence, in spite of the fact that Mr. Henry thinks the bookseller is not making enough sacrifice for his business. The problems of distributing books to the community had to be first faced by private initiative, in common with many other affairs. We are now in an era of co-operative endeavor, and this new era has given a wonderful impulse to the public library which has had no better backing than that which has been created for it by the bookstores and their clients. In book distribution, part of the work must still be carried on by private initiative, and I doubt if it well becomes those who are carrying on the endowed work to have too patronizing an attitude toward those who bear other burdens, and I am personally confident that this is not the general attitude among librarians. In the last few years I have had a great deal of contact with those in library work, and have had the greatest pleasure and inspiration from that contact. Three years ago Mr. Bowerman, the librarian of Washington, made one of the most helpful addresses that we have ever had at a booksellers' convention, and this year, at Chicago, Mr. Dudgeon, of Wisconsin, as well as Miss Massee, of the A. L. A. Bureau, added much to the interest of our gathering. None of these speakers felt called upon to suggest that the booksellers, in spite of their limited numbers, lack vision and self-sacrifice.

The bookseller draws from the work of the librarian many of the best suggestions that come to him in a year's work. He gets from that profession a great incentive towards more complete training for his work, the greatest present need in the bookselling business. We are not, however, going to apologize for the smallness of our convention, as most states can support ten times as many libraries as bookstores and as many times more workers. We are also going to continue to work for co-operation with libraries and schools in making our institutions, what few there are of them, a part of the cultural life of the community, and we hope that we may continue to make the same self-sacrifice in this business as have the booksellers from whom we have taken over the progress thus far made.

FREDERIC G. MELCHER.

OBITUARY NOTES

PROFESSOR ELIE METCHNIKOFF, the famous bacteriologist, died of heart trouble in Paris on July 15 in his 72d year. Following his education at Kharkoff, Metchnikoff studied at Giessen and Munich, and in 1870 he was appointed professor of zoology at Odessa. He held this post until 1882, when he resigned to devote himself to private research. In 1888 he had attracted the notice of Louis Pasteur, the founder of the famous Pasteur Institute, and was invited to become one of Pasteur's associates. In 1895 he succeeded as the director of the institute. Professor Metchnikoff was world famous as an exponent of theories for the prolongation of human life, believing that it should not be uncommon for people to live to the age of 150 years. In 1908 the Nobel Prize for medical research was divided between the late Dr. Paul Erhlich, of Berlin, and Professor Metchnikoff. The following of his books have been published in this country: "Immunity in Infective Diseases," 1905; "Nature of Man," 1903; "New Hygiene," 1906; "Prolongation of Life," 1910.

PERIODICAL NOTES

WITH THE SEPTEMBER number the Cosmopolitan will change to the big size.

WITH THE AUGUST issue the Masses is merged with the New Review and the price raised to fifteen cents.

INCREASED COST OF PRODUCTION has compelled both of Atlanta's afternoon papers, the Journal and the Georgian, to raise their price from 2 to 3 cents.

Smart Set and Field and Stream are among the publications which have moved to the Printing Crafts Building, 8th avenue and 34th street, New York City.

The Seven Arts, a new monthly edited by James Oppenheim, will make its bow in September or October. It will publish stories, short plays, poems, essays, and editorials. "Such arts as cannot be directly set forth in a magazine will receive expression through critical writing, which, it is hoped, will be no less creative than the fiction and poetry. In this field the aim will be to give vistas and meanings rather than a monthly survey or review; to interpret rather than to catalog." The staff will consist of Mr. Oppenheim and Waldo Frank, the latter an associate editor, and an advisory board consisting at present of Kahlil Gibran, Louis Untermeyer, Van Wyck Brooks, Robert Frost, Edna Kenton and David Mannes.

THE PHILADELPHIA Public Ledger is now syndicating its "Famous Writers'" Service, releasing articles on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday throughout the year to a string of newspapers which includes the St. Louis Post Dispatch, Pittsburgh Dispatch, Detroit Free Press, Chicago Daily News and many others. The first article to appear was Mary Roberts Rinehart's "The Death of Patriotism in America." The writers in the service include: Winston Churchill, Mary Roberts Rinehart, George Creel, Edward Hungerford, Hugo Muensterberg, Waldemar Kaempffert, Gertrude Atherton, Sarah N. Cleghorn, George Pattullo, Jack London, Caspar Whitney, James Oppenheim, Cleveland Moffett, William Allen White, Edward Mott Woolley, Ida M. Tarbell, Ray Stannard Baker, Arthur Somers Roche, Irvin S. Cobb, Roland G. Usher, Dorothy Canfield Fisher, E. S. Martin, Albert W. Atwood, Ernest Thompson Seton, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Peter Clark MacFarlane, Owen Johnson, Burton J. Hendrick.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT informs us that George F. Williams, of New Orleans and Boston, whose arrest we noted last week, has been sentenced to one year and one day in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

JORDAN & CO. have in preparation a series of new gift books, especially adapted to the holiday trade. They will, we understand, be bright and original and will retail at popular prices. The line will be shown by Jordan & Co.'s representatives in the near future.

"I HAVE BEEN INTERESTED" writes Charles M. Roe, of the Standard Publishing Co., "in reading the article entitled 'Mexico as Portrayed in Books' in your issue of the 8th instant. There are two volumes which seem to me should be included in the list, 'Life in Mexico' (Dutton), by Mme. Calderon de la Barca, and 'The Planter' (Harper), the latter being a story of rubber planting in southern Mexico."

SINCE "A Diplomat's Wife in Mexico" (Harper) was published in June, the book has not come off the presses, and in four weeks five printings have been necessary to meet the demand for it. One jobber has just re-ordered one thousand copies of the book. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, the wife of Nelson O'Shaughnessy, who was the Chargé d'Affaires in Mexico City before the breaking off of relations between the United States and Huerta's government, wrote at the time, in letters to her mother, all the dramatic happenings of those days which now make up the pages of "A Diplomat's Wife in Mexico."

AN INTERESTING PAGE of small-space ads. of twelve books from as many publishers appeared in The New Republic, for July 15, under the caption: "Books for your summer reading: summer is the time to catch up with the really good books you have wanted to read, but have not found time for. The titles below are selected by the publishers as their most permanent contributions." An interesting example of the use by one publisher of another publisher's book to advertise a new publication appears in the John Lane ad. of "Davenport," a story of dual personality which is advertised as "a novel for 'Patience Worthies,'"—"Patience Worth" being, of course, the psychical novel published by Holt.

THE WINNERS of the first three prizes in the Everyman's Library contest are: First (prize of 250 volumes of Everyman's Library), Manuel Band, 6529 St. Clair Avenue, Cleveland, O., 44,644 votes; second (150 volumes), Miss Frances Schmitt, 709 West Second Street, Des Moines, Ia., 41,483 votes; third (100 volumes), Charles B. Taylor, 1326 West Eighth Street, Des Moines, Ia., 41.483 votes. As the number of votes of the last two participants is a tie, the second prize was awarded to Miss Frances Schmitt, the arrangement of her selections being more in accordance with the winning list. In addition to the above single volumes were awarded to 500 winners of consolation prizes. These lists received 30,321 to 40,931 votes. The winning titles with the winning number of votes were announced in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for June 17.

DURING THE PAST YEAR, according to the Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer, 563,237 volumes of free text-books were distributed among the California schools. The cost of freight in the distribution amounted to $3,208. Royalties during the year amounted to $30,000. Manufacturing costs were $92,241. The estimates show that the cost to the state in the distribution of free books has amounted to less than 25 cents per child, there being over 400,000 enrolled in the schools. A number of changes are contemplated for the coming year which will probably add a third to the cost of distribution. A committee appointed by the last Legislature is now working on the problem of standardizing the books used in the high schools, which are now purchased in great variety from the different publishers. An attempt will also be made to have these published by the state and distributed free. So far the high school pupils have had to purchase their own books.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO. announce that a new edition of Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, to be known as Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, Third Edition, will be ready about August 15. Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, Third Edition, while designed to be the successor of the earlier Collegiates, is in no sense a revision of these editions, but is based upon and abridged from Webster's New International Dictionary. It is the largest abridgment that the Merriam Co. will make of that work. It will be 112 pages larger than its predecessor and will have a slightly larger type page. Through this slight increase in size, and the greater number of pages, together with careful condensation along various lines, the Collegiate, Third Edition will have a greatly increased number of entries, and will record about 100,000 words and phrases. The Collegiate, Third Edition will be published as a net book, selling at list prices to all consumers except that a discount of 10 per cent. may be made to schools and to public libraries. The discounts to the trade will be the same as on the previous editions.

THE APPOINTMENT of a special committee of the House of Representatives to investigate the prevailing high prices of print paper, and conditions in the wood pulp and paper industry, is sought in the following resolution introduced, on July 18, by Representative James R. Mann, the Republican floor leader:

"Resolved, That a select committee of five members be appointed by the Speaker to inquire into the supply and production of pulp wood, wood pulp, and print paper, and other articles entering into the production of paper of any kind, and especially insofar as the same are, or may be claimed to be, affected by any combination or conspiracy, to control, regulate, monopolize, or restrain interstate or foreign commerce or trade in the production, manufacture, supply, distribution, or sale of pulp wood, wood pulp, or paper pulp, or paper of any kind, or any of the products of paper: and also to inquire as to the causes of the recent marked increase in the prices of pulp and of print and other papers and whether the present prices are controlled in whole or in part by any combinations of persons or corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, or in the production of such articles in foreign countries, and if so, enquire into the organization, conduct, methods, and practices of such persons or corporations, practices of such persons or corporations," etc.

BUSINESS NOTES

AUCTION SALES

JULY 25 AT 2:30 P. M. (One session.) Catalogue: Americana, Shakespeare, sport, literature, history and biography, books and views relating to New York, autograph letters. (No. 25; 324 lots.)—Walpole.

A COLLECTION of the Robert Burns books and manuscripts of the late J. J. Greenshields, Esq., of Kerse, Lanarkshire, were sold on July 18 at Sotheby's for a total of $4455. The only known copy of the prospectus issued by Burns with a view to obtaining subscriptions for a proposed volume of poems—the now world famous Kilmarnock edition, published in 1786—was sold for $1375. Among the other Burns relics sold were an autograph poem "Sketch," the first draft of an "Election Ballad," $1100; a first edition of "The Vicar of Wakefield," by Goldsmith, $400; a first edition of "Waverley, or 'Tis Sixty Years Since," by Sir Walter Scott, in three volumes, $750.

GEORGE D. SMITH paid $4000 at the sale of the Huth library at Sotheby's for a copy of the rare first edition of Milton's "Comus," printed for Humphrey Robinson, 1637. Mr. Smith also bought for $600 a copy of Verard's "Merlin," described by Macfarlane as the second issue, 1503, although it bears the date 1498 and is described on the title page as the "première edition." Mr. Smith paid $500 for the first edition of "Paradise Lost," 166-. $3000 for the second edition of the "Mirror of the World," printed by Caxton. He also bought for $500 the first edition of the first part of the "Mirror for Magistrates," 1559. A copy of the "Merry Devill of Edmonton," 1612, said to be the only copy recorded of what is believed to be the second edition, brought $2825; the volume of obituary verses written in memory of Edward King by his friends, which includes the first edition of Milton's "Lycidas," brought $2375, and an illuminated manuscript missal in Gothic letters on vellum, of English workmanship, ascribed to the latter part of the fourteenth or early fifteenth century, sold for $1175. "The Comedy of Mucedorus, King's Sonne, of Valentia, and Amadine of Aragon," of which one scene is attributed to Shakespeare, was sold for $1025. It cost Mr. Huth $42. The sale of this fifth portion of the Huth library was concluded on July 8, the amount received being $78,200. This brings the grand total to date up to $909,335. Half the library is yet to be dispersed.

THE AMERICAN
Educational Catalogue, 1916

The List plans to cover all textbooks sold in quantities for class use in American schools and academic institutions at a minimum price of 10 cents. This includes books prepared especially for supplementary reading in primary and grammar schools, classical and foreign texts in French, German, Italian and Spanish annotated for schools, English texts following as far as practicable the list required for college entrance examinations 1916–19, dictionaries, and comprehensive school editions of Shakespeare.

The List does not include textbooks used in universities and professional or technical schools, supplementary reading sold singly for school libraries, paper editions of English texts which are also offered by the publisher in cloth binding, works of reference (except dictionaries), teachers' aids (except teachers' manual forming part of a textbook series), works out of print or superseded by newer editions, or works obsolete in the sense of being no longer sold in quantities for class introduction, but only in individual copies to schools having the book already in use. For such works see the American Educational Lists of previous years.

Entries are under authors or editors; classical texts are entered under editor's name, foreign and English texts under author's name with editor's name in parenthesis. For revised subject classification, and for collective reference to classical authors entered under editors, see the second part of this List, following the main alphabet.

The price given is the "net" or introduction price made by the publisher (with close trade discount only), for which a copy is sent to a teacher or bookseller postpaid. Books priced at retail, with regular trade discount, are designated by a dagger (†) in the price column. Where an additional mailing charge is made for postage, on single copies, an asterisk (*) precedes the price. When there is a blank in price column the publisher failed to give information. A double asterisk () designates books forthcoming and yet unpriced. New books issued since List of 1915 are designated by a double dagger (‡) before title.

☞ Be particular in ordering to specify edition, and to give the full name of the book as entered in the list.

SUBJECT CLASSIFICATION

For the American Educational List, 1916.

This classification is in seventeen main classes shown by center headings in BLACK FACE CAPS:

ART
BUSINESS TRAINING
ECONOMICS AND CIVICS
EXAMINATIONS
HISTORY
KINDERGARTEN
LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE
MANUAL OF DOMESTIC TRAINING
MATHEMATICS
NATURAL SCIENCE
PENMANSHIP
PHILOSOPHY
PHYSICAL TRAINING
READING AND ELOCUTION
SUPPLEMENTARY READING

Divisions of these main headings are shown by black face lower case, and subdivisions by SMALL CAPS. The index below shows under which of the main heads any specific subject may be sought, except that self-evident references, as from French language to Language, are not given.

The names refer to the preceding author list, where prices, publishers, etc., are entered.

Where such subdivisions as "elementary," and "higher" are used, books are placed under them only if so designated by publishers. Otherwise they may be found under the larger division. Series are entered only under "graded."

The Publishers' Weekly

Subscription Rates.

One year, postage prepaid in the United States, $5.00; foreign, $6.00.

Single copies, 10 cents. Educational Number, in leatherette, 50 cents; Christmas Bookshelf, 25 cents.

Advertising Rates.

One page	$25 00
Half page	14 00
Quarter page	7 00
Eighth page	4 00
One-sixteenth page	2 00

The above rates are for unspecified positions. Special rates for preferred positions (full pages only).

Higher rates are charged for the Summer Reading, Educational Number and Christmas Bookshelf, and for the monthly Book Review supplement sections.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday night.

Under the headings of "BOOKS WANTED" and "BOOKS FOR SALE" book-trade subscribers are given under their own names five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertising for specified books, not more than one title to the line, in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding one hundred lines a year, a maximum of fifty lines under "Books Wanted" and fifty lines under "Books for Sale," and if over five lines are sent for either department in any one issue, or fifty lines for each department within the calendar year, the excess is at ten cents a line. Bills for this service will be rendered monthly. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "HELP WANTED" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter Count seven words to the line.

Autobiography and Letters of Matthew Vassar

Edited by ELIZABETH HAZELTON HAIGHT. 8vo, cloth, pp. xxiii+199. Illustrated... $2.00

The story of Matthew Vassar's life is marked by frankness and simplicity. Although he had hardly any educational advantages, his broadened vision of later years of success prompted him to open wide the door of higher education for women. To this chivalrous undertaking he gave himself unreservedly, and in giving education to others he himself became educated unawares.

The Rise of English Literary Prose

By GEORGE PHILIP KRAPP. Cr. 8vo, cloth, pp. xiii+551 $1.75

"This book covers the period of discovery in the history of English literary prose. It begins with the latter half of the Fourteenth Century, and it ends with the first quarter of the Seventeenth Century."—From the Preface.

"Professor Krapp has produced a useful work of research which brings together a great number of instructive facts in compact form as no other work covering the same ground has done."—Springfield Republican.

The Mechanism of English Style

By LEWIS WORTHINGTON SMITH. Crown 8vo, cloth, pp. viii+291 $1.00

The object of this book is to help students to acquire a fluent and easy style in writing. The author shows how a piece of literature may be analyzed and, for the sake of practice, gives selections that exemplify different types.

Short Stories in the Making

By ROBERT WILSON NEAL. Crown 8vo, cloth, pp. xi+261 75c

A writer's and student's introduction to the technique and practical composition of short stories, including an adaptation of the principles of the stage plot to short story writing.

Music as a Language

Lectures to Music students. By ETHEL HOME. Crown 8vo, cloth, pp. 82 $1.15

"Of considerable importance to all who are actively interested in musical education."—Times Educational Supplement, London.

Keats' Odes, Lyrics, and Sonnets

Edited, with introduction and notes by M. (ROBERTSON) HILLS. Fcap 8vo, cloth, pp. 152 $1.15

"This volume contains the Odes of Keats and the best of his lyrics and sonnets. It is intended as a companion volume to my edition of the 'Poems published in 1820,' with which it is uniform, and together with that volume may be said to contain all that poetry on which the fame of Keats securely rests."—From the Preface.

A Pocket Lexicon to the Greek New Testament

By A. SOUTER. Fcap 8vo, cloth, pp. viii+290 $1.00

Also on Oxford India paper $1-90

"It will give me pleasure to recommend the book to my clases as superseding all brief lexicons of the Greek New Testament hitherto published."—Prof. J. E. Frame, Union Theological Seminary.

The Oxford Treasury of French Literature

Vol. I: Mediaeval, Renaissance, and Seventeenth Century. By A. G. LATHAM. Crown 8vo, cloth, pp. 332 90c

Intended to do for French what The Oxford Treasury of English Literature has done for English.

"Well adapted to giving students a bird's-eye view of the great masterpieces of French literature from the very beginning."—Prof. James Geddes, Jr., Boston University, Boston, Mass.

Dante De Monarchia

The Oxford Text. Edited by DR. E. C. MOORE, with an introduction on the Political Theory of Dante by W. H. V. READE. Crown 8vo, cloth, pp. xxxi+341-376 $1.15

First Russian Book

By NEVILL FORBES. Crown 8vo, cloth, pp. viii+216 85c

This book is intended as a practical means of acquainting the student of Russian with the first difficulties of the language, which are the case-endings. A very complete index of words and phrases is included.

A First Russian Reader

From L. N. TOLSTOY. With English Notes and a Vocabulary by PERCY DEARMER and VYACHESLAV A. TANANEVICH. Crown 8vo, cloth, pp. 80 50c

The easiest little stories from Tolstoy duly accented, with very full notes, and a vocabulary which contains every word used in the text.

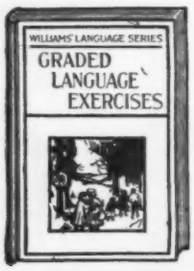
New Standard Text Books

COMMON SCHOOL ARITHMETICS

By G. A. TALLANT and F. H. UMHOLTZ

Constructed on sound pedagogical principles, carefully graded. Numerous helpful illustrations, devices and suggestions, trains the child to find out number facts for himself. The child is taught to think numbers as well as see numbers. No other books contain so many problems drawn from the child's daily experiences.

GRADED LANGUAGE EXERCISES



By J. D. WILLIAMS

The author presents a new method of teaching English. Correct English is taught through self-expression. The book deals with things the child knows.

SOME OPINIONS

"The author has marked out a distince course." —Journal of Education.

"It is a superior book."—The School Century.

"The book is not a compilation; it is a creation." —RANDALL J. CONDON.

COMMON SCHOOL SPELLING BOOK

By FRANCES SQUIRE POTTER

In its treatment of basic phonetic laws, training of the eye and ear and appeal to the child's sensibilities, this new work has won the highest commendation. Its handling of race elements, world-building and syllabic analysis is very interesting. This book is built along the lines of efficiency—efficiency for the pupil and efficiency for the teacher. It aids these two classes of workers as does no other spelling book in the market. Correspondence solicited.

Cloth, 12mo, 185 pages, 25c.

READING, CONVERSATION, COMPOSITION

A New Language Book for Boys and Girls in Story Form, By J. W. Williams

It deals with the Adventures of Tiny Redsquirrel and Chatty Chipmunk and with the progress of these and other small animals at the school conducted by Miss Hare, of which Mr. Owl is a director, and Billy Beaver the janitor.

Noted educators who have seen the manuscript declare it absolutely unique and an assured success. Cloth, 12mo, 50 illustrations by H. Wood, 192 pages, 40c.

Text Books Just Published

LIPPINCOTT'S Practical PRIMARY ARITHMETIC

First Book, for 1st and 2nd Grades, 24c.
Second Book, for 2nd and 4th Grades, 28c.

The use of books like these will prepare pupils for more advanced grades, and remove the cause for the very general complaint that boys and girls passing upward are not able to perform the fundamental operations with accuracy and facility.

BARTLETT'S DAILY SPELLER

For First Grade .....16c.
For Second Grade .....20c.

The book for the First Grade is beautifully illustrated in color; that for the Second Grade is well illustrated in black.

They are ideal books for young pupils. If used as the Author intends they should be, the spelling lessons will be very pleasant and profitable.

ANDREWS' SCHOOL HISTORY of the UNITED STATES Price, $1.00

This book, written by Matthew Page Andrews, has just been published. It is intended for use in Grammar Grades.

The use of this book will add renewed interest to the recitations; will give pupils a correct and more comprehensive view of the subject; and will contribute toward the making of intelligent, patriotic citizens, by giving the young student a clearer, broader conception of the standing of the United States among the nations of the world.

All who are desirous of introducing a history text-book which will give most gratifying results, should examine this book before making final choice.

Correspondence solicited.

WHEELER'S GRADED READERS By GAIL CALMERTON and WILLIAM H. WHEELER

WHEELER'S GRADED PRIMER
List Price, 30 Cents

Cloth, 128 pages, 50 engravings, 28 of them full-page.

The primer vocabularly is small—only 250 words. New words are introduced gradually and regularly and repeated frequently. The sentences are short and easy. The language is plain, natural and conversational. The thought is simple, childlike, and pure. The little stories are stories, and not mere drill upon words.

WHEELER'S GRADED FIRST READER
List Price, 30 Cents

Cloth, 128 pages, 40 engravings, 20 of them full-page.

There is the very closest connection between the Wheeler Primer and the Wheeler First Reader. The plan of the two books is the same. The First Reader begins right where the Primer ends. These books are graded not only from lesson to lesson, but from book to book.

WHEELER'S GRADED SECOND READER
List Price, 40 Cents

Cloth, 160 pages, 33 engravings, 25 of them full-page.

This Second Reader is so carefully graded that it follows the First Reader as easily and naturally as the First Reader follows the Primer. The authors have not forgotten that the Second Reader children need constant drill on familiar words to keep from forgetting them, and that the new words must not be introduced too rapidly.

WHEELER'S GRADED THIRD READER
List Price, 50 Cents

Cloth, 288 pages, 37 engravings, 25 of them full-page.

The mission of this Third Reader is to continue the fundamental processes of learning to read and to create and foster a taste for good reading. The stories are longer and more complete and more conversational than those found in other third readers. The aim of the authors has been to make each lesson so simple that the children can read it easily, and so full of interest that the children will let the thought and the feeling of what they read come from their hearts as well as from their lips. This is the secret of good expression.

WHEELER'S GRADED FOURTH READER
List Price, 50 Cents

Cloth, 288 pages, 31 engravings, 26 of them full-page.

The length of the selections is a special feature of this book, the selections being long enough to be interesting and to mean something when standing alone. Many of the selections were chosen with a definite purpose of introducing the animate children to the children of fiction. Jackanapes, Cosette, Little Charley, Tom and Maggie Tulliver, Paul and Florence Dombey and those other boys and girls of story land, should be as familiar to the children as their playmates.

WHEELER'S GRADED FIFTH READER
List Price, 60 Cents

Cloth, 448 pages, 39 engravings, 30 of them full-page.

This book was prepared with the conviction that the love for the best books—books which make us clearer in head, larger in heart, and nobler in action—is better—a thousand times better—than all the material wealth the world can give; and with the hope that the pupils will like the charming people of the book world to whom they are here introduced too well to confine their acquaintance within the brief limits necessary to this book.

Better Textbooks

Here are some of the books progressive schools are using, and eager students are asking for. Remember the names; these are the books of the future.

The Young and Field Literary Readers

You will hear a great deal about the Young and Field Readers in the next few years. We think that before long they will be the most popular series published. Fascinating to the child, fresh in material, built on a sound ethical basis, rich in suggestive questions and aids, beautiful in appearance, sensible, sympathetic, inspiring, they promise a new era in the teaching of reading.

Wentworth-Smith: Essentials of Arithmetic

A series which accurately reflects the newer ideals and demands of education, by eliminating all superfluous and confusing non-essentials from a subject in which efficient instruction depends upon simplicity and clearness. There remain the indispensable topics which every child must know, organized into a course noteworthy for its fine problem material, its clear-cut organization of basic matter, and its unique review arrangement.

McPherson and Henderson: A First Course in Chemistry

This new volume by the authors of "An Elementary Study of Chemistry" reveals all the excellences which have made the earlier text a generally recognized standard for elementtry courses, with an enviable record of wide and successful use. The new book embodies the latest discoveries of laboratory research and the most up-to-date pedagogical methods.

The Robinson-Breasted-Beard Outlines of European History

meet the new recommendation endorsed by the Committee of Five for a two-year course where emphasis is transferred from ancient and medieval to modern history—where one year is devoted to ancient and medieval times and one year to modern history.

Caldwell and Eikenberry's Elements of General Science fulfills the requirements for a course giving the first-year high-school student an understanding of the essential principles of science, be it physics, chemistry or biology.

Genung and Hanson: Outlines of Composition and Rhetoric

Places unusual emphasis on self-expression and furnishes to that end a very great abundance of exercises, based on literary work of the highest quality.

Schools that arrange to cover their English work with Hanson's Two Years' Course in English Composition and Genung and Hanson's Outlines of Composition and Rhetoric will find their needs fully met and their work progressing with freshness, variety and interest.
